Ready to master?

Make it fun to learn the placement of all the elements in the Periodic Table.

In a easy and intuitive way users can try to master all three levels of difficulty in shortest amount of time.

Users can post scores and achievements on Facebook for everyone to admire and challenge the entire world in Game Center.

A learning game with a gaming twist.

With simple graphics and easy navigation the app fits all ages in three levels of difficulty.

The Student level acts like a training level introducing users to the Periodic Table. The Bachelor level tests users ability to memorize. And placing the elements on the Master level definitely requires knowledge about the Periodic Table.

With highscores and achievable trophies, users can challenge themselves and others via Apples Game Center and social media like Facebook.

First in a series of learning games.

Future apps will challenge you in other genres, but still feature the same kind of crisp and pleasing interface, with the intention to be easy to use, but still challenging to master.

By adding gaming concepts such as timers, scores and trophies the apps are designed to inspire users to learn.
